

Welcome to the kiwilog

Growing families the natural and organic way

I love Evol

by kiwilog

Since I live in Austin, TX, it probably comes as no surprise that I have easy access to some of the tastiest burritos on the planet (that's what you get when local Tex-Mex joints and taco trucks line nearly every street!). So when Evol Burritos offered to send me a sample pack of their frozen burritos, you can bet I was a little bit skeptical about whether the food would measure up.

Evol, you proved me wrong! I've been working my way through their veggie offerings, including the breakfast skillet, vegetable fajita, and spinach and tofu burritos—and I love them! (Meat eaters, EVOL has plenty of all-natural beef, chicken, and pork options, too.) Best of all? They've offered to give away three vegetarian and three meat prize packs to KIWI readers. Want a chance to win? Become a fan of KIWI on Facebook and let us know your favorite burrito filling. Good luck!

-Marygrace, KIWI staff writer